Some may say that beer and mountains go together like powder days and first tracks. Whistler locals have always had a passion for craft beer and they love to share it with visitors. There's no better time for ale enthusiasts and dabblers alike to explore the resort's legendary mountain ale trails and watering holes than in fall when life is mellower and slower paced.

That's why, after the successful inaugural celebration last year, Whistler is once again hosting a full 31 days of craft beer programming around the resort this October. Whistler Craft Beer Month offers guests a unique way to savour this special season that pairs perfectly with the many activities and cultural experiences available throughout fall.

"Whistler has a longstanding history of celebrating food and drink through the fall, and with two local breweries located right in Whistler, our community has a passion for craft beer and we love to share it with our visitors," says

Over 20 community partners have come together this year to offer more than 40 beer-themed experiences for craft beer lovers to enjoy. Highlights include beer-infused dinners, special tasting flights, craft beer spa experiences, boulder and beers, beer bingo and much more. Among the most popular choices is the "Battle of the Beer Cocktail," where local bartending teams compete against each other to create the best cocktail using craft beer and spirits. Whistler Valley Tours' Brew Bus is once again offering a fun and easy way to explore the Sea to Sky's craft breweries and experiences.

While in Whistler, visitors can take advantage of this colourful time of year by exploring popular fall activities like hiking, biking, ziplining and relaxing at one of the resort's world-class spas. And then après the way locals do — with friends and a pint of the freshest, tastiest ale.

Book your Whistler Craft Beer Month getaway at whistler.com/craftbeermonth. Fall also offers great value on accommodation with rooms from $129 per night and a free $100 Dining Voucher when you book a stay of three nights or more.
